He said nothing, but she knew how petty the doings of a village witch appeared to him, who had seen great deeds and powers. She sighed and spoke from her heart - "Oh, if only I wasn't a woman!". The guesswork of a wizard is close to knowledge, though he may not know what it is he knows. The uncaring, disembodied eye. He could see only what the flicker of werelight showed just around him, dwindled into trifles. Might Diamond go (as his mother's uncle had gone) to the School of Wizards. ONE WINTER AFTERNOON on the shore of the Onneva River where it fingers out into the north bight of the Great Bay of Havnor, a man stood up on the muddy sand: a man poorly dressed and poorly shod, a thin brown man with dark eyes and hair so fine and thick it shed the rain. It was raining on the low beaches of the river mouth, the fine, cold, dismal drizzle of that grey winter. His clothes were soaked. He hunched his shoulders, turned about, and set off towards a wisp of chimney smoke he saw far down the shore. Behind him were the tracks of an otter's four feet coming up from the water and the tracks of a man's two feet going away from it. High Marsh. The Doorkeeper looked at her for what seemed a long time. Then it is your name," he said. "But he could not say the other name, but he could think of the trees; of the roots of the trees. This. His dreams of her were never of her yielding to him, but of himself yielding to a fierce, title or court privilege in the days of the kings, through all the dark years after Maharion fell. without front walls. Approaching them, I found low, dimly lit cubicles, in which stood rows of quick woman, with a round face and clear eyes, and a mass of dark hair, not straight like most. Where to now? "He was here!" she cried. "That foul heart, that Thorion!" She strode to meet the Patterner as he came into the starlight by the house. "I was bathing in the stream, and he stood there watching me!" faced and bright-eyed and cheerful. He had taken it hard when his voice changed, the sweet treble. He saw the lines of the spells that held him, heavy cords of darkness, a tangled maze of lines all about him. There was a way out of the knot, if he turned around so, and then so, and parted the lines with his hands, so; and he was free. For there had been times when he felt that, as he had summoned her living, so dead she might. the witch "the wisewoman," but a witch was a witch and her daughter was no fit companion for. Silence asked about keeping goats; and each time the memory gave him a quiet satisfaction, like. He had not known how tired he was until he came to haven. He spent all that day drowsing before the fire with the grey cat, while Gift went in and out at her work, offering him food several times - poor, coarse food, but he ate it all, slowly, valuing it. Come evening the brother went off, and she said with a sigh, "He'll run up a whole new line of credit at the tavern on the strength of us having a lodger. Not that it's your fault." I was a child and first heard The Deed of Enlad sung. I am lost among wonders."
