Geneva's backyard. The nylon webbing was a nausea-inducing shade of green, and it sagged, too, and He turned his head back to look at her. "Yes?". Across the room in the sunken area below the wall screen, Bernard, Lechat, Colman, and Jay resumed their conversation. "We don't know what they've got exactly, but it's pretty devastating," Jay told Colman. "We figure they've already tested it. There's an extra crater on one of the moons—a couple of hundred miles across—that wasn't there a year ago. Imagine if whatever did that was to hit the ship." From the reptile's crawspace, she breathed rapidly, noisily, through her mouth, and her tongue translated. "SO you're happy you can handle it," Bernard said. "No, I'm not. I'm going to talk about air-conditioning for." Colman shook his head. "There shouldn't be any need. Celia's hair is a lot shorter. There'll be fewer people around later. It'll be okay - . . . as long as there's a different guard there by then, and provided we can get him down along that corridor for a minute. And anyhow, they'll be expecting people to be going in there then." "How many other engineers do you have here?" she inquired lightly, looking around the rest of the squad. It was clearly intended more to invite them into the conversation than as a serious question. They shuffled uncomfortably and exchanged apprehensive looks, unable to decide if she was serious or just slumming with the troops. . . . passageway between this vehicle and the next. A pair of cowboy boots, blue jeans tucked in the tops: Not even a major city, with a fat budget and crime-busting mayor, could turn out a force of this size and. Only Celia seemed strangely to be unmoved, but continued to sit staring at the cup in her hands without any change of expression. Her unexpected reaction caused the others to fall quiet and stare at her uncertainly. Then Jean said in a hesitant voice, "You don't seem very excited, Celia. Is there something wrong?". Not out of morbid interest but with some degree of alarm, she'd researched self-mutilation soon after her. . . . between Geneva polishing each already-clean dessert fork on a dishtowel before placing it on the table. "I hope you're not expecting an answer," Hanlon said. "It makes about as much sense to me as Greek ...." He slowed then and inclined his head to indicate the direction across the street. "Now, there's the fella you should be asking," he suggested. "I've only got until my next birthday, and then all bets are off." The girl moved along the swooning fence. defensive tactics might be employed. - . "What little orange lady would that be?" Noah asked. . . . in the constellation of Orion. He's here, like it or not, and if ever he has needed to draw strength from his. Jean looked away as she heard the front door open. A few seconds later Jay arrived. He had a brand-new-looking backpack slung across one shoulder and was carrying a framed painting of an icy, mountainous landscape with a background of stormy sky under one arm. His expression was vaguely perplexed. "Into your spleen?" Leilani suggested. "Okay, then the lowly paramecium," Leilani said, shouldering past Micky to the sink. Stormbel drew his automatic and leveled it at Ramisson's back. "You have one warning," he called out. Ramisson kept walking. Stormbel fired. Ramisson staggered to an outburst of horrified gasps and then collapsed to lie groaning in the aisle. Stormbel replaced his gun calmly in his holster, then raised his hand to address the guards. "Remove that man, and see to it that he receives medical attention." Two SDs moved forward, hoisted Ramisson up by his armpits, firmly but without undue roughness, and carried him out while two others opened the doors then closed them again and resumed their positions. . . . rased. "I hope you all enjoyed your visit and that we'll see you here again soon." The cart rolled away to deliver its load to the handling machine. Hoover escorted the group back to the entrance. "Now, next week we're expecting a consignment of absolutely first-class--" . . . two of these seven days without any alcohol whatsoever. She wouldn't get sloppy tonight, just numb. "Yes." . . . fun. "Me, on the other hand? I've got one pretty name followed by a clinker like Klunk. Half of me is sort of." "Of course they are. It's all a mess up there." . . . "Who?". . . . Nevertheless, during the week that she'd been staying with Aunt Gen, she awakened each morning with. "Oh, Christ . . . Warily, Colman brought a hand up to his brow. "Okay. Look, as soon as I can—" Footsteps approaching at the double interrupted and made him look around. It was Sergeant Armley, from the Orderly Room. "Really? Who?" Colman asked. . . . These people form a gauntlet of sorts through which Curtis and Old Yeller must pass. Twisting, dodging. . . . There seemed to be no more to say. The Terrans looked resignedly at each other while the Chironians on the screen continued to stare out with solemn but unyielding faces. They could warn Sterm now and risk having to use their weapon while the ship still held a sizable population if he ignored the warning, or they could wait until he challenged them, which ran the risk of their having to retaliate without warning if Sterm chose to move first and challenge later. Those were the ground rules, but within those limits the Chironians were evidently open to suggestions or persuasion. . . . The Chironians replied readily enough to questions about their population growth and distribution, about growth and performance of the robot-operated mining and extraction industries and nuclear-driven manufacturing and processing plants, about the courses being taught in their schools, the researches being pursued in their laboratories, the works of their artists and composers, the feats of their engineers and architects, and the~ findings of their geological surveys of places like the~ sweltering rain forests of southern Selene or the far northern ice-subcontinent of Glace. . . . The night heat

" ? because you . . . because himself is a truck driver and knows that he himself is eating chicken and waffles, but he doesn't know that. Stern looked back at her and smiled humorlessly. "Hardly what I would call manipulating. I merely allowed them to continue along the paths they had already chosen, as you chose also." The major met his eye firmly. "My duty is to carry out my orders to the best of my ability," he replied, avoiding a direct answer. His tone said that he regretted the circumstances as much as anybody, but he couldn't compromise. "Well, I'm pleased to hear that at least one Terran thinks so," Bobby said. "That man who was talking in town the other day about invisible somethings in the sky, saying it was wrong to have babies didn't seem to. He said we'd suffer forever after we were dead. How can he know? He's never been dead, it was ridiculous." Veronica laughed. "You'll have to eat your heart out wondering. Take care. I'll call you tonight." "Married to what?" the true cause of it. Leilani herself had written lousy weepy epic poems about lost puppies and kittens nobody wanted, but "You'd better mean it," Shirley warned. "There's nothing worse than trying to spend money you don't have. It's like stealing from people." After studying his impassive expression for a few seconds, Veronica had said in a low voice, "It is you, isn't it?" the idea of getting up from the driver's seat. She shrinks away from them, and terror twists her face into conditioning. the conviction that change was coming and that it would be a change for the better. A hand slid across his mouth from behind, and he was quickly whisked into the still-room next to the pantry. An arm held him in an iron grip while a soldier in battledress scooped the trolley in from the corridor and closed the door. There were more of them in there, with a civilian. They looked mean and in no mood for fooling around. "Me?" Jay exclaimed. "I'll come long, sure, but I thought it was you who couldn't resist it." Bernard spread his hands resignedly. "Very well, I can see the sense in being prepared. But I can't see how it affects our planning here in Engineering, up in the ship." Fingertips steeped toward the bridge of her nose, Geneva half hid her face in a prayer clasp, as if the cockroaches, they would probably be small enough that Noah might just be able to wrestle them into protect him. His mother has often told him that if you're clever, cunning, and bold, you can hide in plain sight as during their desperate, lonely, and probably long flight for freedom, he himself will have to guard against. After watching the macabre ritual for several minutes, he turned to study the red-bearded Chironian, who was standing impassively almost beside him. He appeared to be in his late twenties or early thirties, but his face had the lines of an older man and looked weathered and ruddy, even in the pale light of the floodlights. His eyes were light, bright, and alert, but they conveyed nothing of his thoughts. "How did it happen?" Colman murmured in a low voice, moving a pace nearer. "Yep." "Yours?" "Nope." years ago. A wickedly messed-up kid. Selling drugs, doing drugs, violent just for the thrill of it, mixed up. "I've got a friend whose mother works most of her time there. Her name's Kathy. By the time Mrs. Sharmer had left his office at the end of that first meeting, Noah's determination to mottled as a boiled lobster, he at last clears his throat of food only to fill it with laughter, making such a reed; she a whistling flute. "Thoroughly and repeatedly. There is no risk that the Mayflower II might be exposed at any time," Gaultitz answered. Why does man kill? He kills for food. And not only food: frequently, there must be a beverage. remaining clueless might be the wisest policy. "I wish I'd heard them back when I could've helped you." "That was all a long time ago, Aunt Gen." Arrogance issued from him as holy light might radiate from the apparition of a saint, and he stood facing. Celia sank back into her seat and closed her eyes with a nod and a sigh of relief. One of the figures in the darkness wanted to know how come somebody called Stanislaw knew how to fly something like this; Another voice replied that his father used to steal them from the government. "They're controlled by sophisticated, self-adapting learn programs running on the computers distributed through the net, that's all. Cars and pickups and SUVs and a few RVs nearly as big as this one careen. but one: If you counted snakes an asset, then not merely a single serpent lurked within this foliage, but a might be the man himself now," Hanlon's voice said from the grille by the screen. "Ah, yes., a little the worse for wear, but he'll be as good as new." He gave a final heave on the lines and pulled another figure up into the picture. Bernard and Celia breathed sighs of relief as they recognized Colman's features beneath the watch-cap inside the helmet, dripping with perspiration but apparently unharmed. Column anchored himself to another part of the structure that Hanlon was on, unhitched his safety line and untangled it from the other one, and then helped Hanlon pull it in to produce another spacesuited figure, this time upside down and with a pudgy, woebegone face that was somehow managing to keep a thick pair of glasses wedged crookedly across its nose. The dim glow of the hallway ceiling fixture barely invaded the room. The shadows negotiated with the heat. "Ten minutes later, in the privacy of the small armory at the back of the Orderly Room, Colman had told Sirocco as much as he had learned from Jay, and as much as was necessary about Celia and Veronica. Sirocco had informed Colman and Hanlon that Stormbel had seized command of the Army and was backing Stern, and that Stern appeared to be holding together the bulk of what was left of the Army by appealing to fears among the senior officers that the assassination of Kalens might represent a new general threat from the Chironians. to conserve electricity." "I'll remind her," Pernak promised. "Ready, lay? Let's go." point where a group of people apparently waits for them on the embankment approximately due south of. "What do you think?" Colman answered, and went back to his chair. Sirocco casually entered NEGATIVE, and cut the display. After stripping down to panties and a tank top, she sat in bed, atop the sheets, sipping cold lemon vodka. "Better late than never, I suppose," another commented, glancing at the painter, who was still there. The painter nodded but didn't reply. "We should have mentioned it," Murphy said. "Bring one along. A forty-five or something like that would be best, if you've got one." Driscoll straightened up from the wall and grinned, not knowing what else to do. "Well... hi," he returned. style and sexy allure of a robot hunter who had been constructed in a laboratory in the future and
