"No harm in that, I suppose." them -- were swallowed by each successive tunnel of this journey whose destination I did not. He had not planned or intended any such adventure, but crazy as it was, it suited him better the more he thought about it. The prospect of spending the long grey winter at Westpool sank his spirits like a stone. There was nothing here for him except the girl Dragonfly, who had come to fill his thoughts. Her massive, innocent strength had defeated him absolutely so far, but he did what she pleased in order to have her do at last what he pleased, and the game, he thought, was worth playing. If she ran away with him, the game was as good as won. As for the joke of it, the notion of actually getting her into the School on Roke disguised as a man, there was little chance of pulling it off, but it pleased him as a gesture of disrespect to all the piety and pomposity of the Masters and their toadies. And if somehow it succeeded, if he could actually get a woman through that door, even for a moment, what a sweet revenge it would be! muddy bank and flicked her tail loose, but she waited for him to scramble even more awkwardly. Nor he mine. I won't speak yours again. But I like to know it, since you know mine." He asked Birch about the place. "That's Iria," Birch said - "Old Iria, I mean to say. I own the house by rights. But after a century of feuds and fights over it, my granddad let the place go to settle the quarrel. Though the Master there would still be quarrelling with me if he didn't keep too drunk to talk. Haven't seen the old man for years. He had a daughter, I think." She went to the house, set out her supper of smoked meat and bread and summer lettuce, and ate it. though it is made of horn and framed in dragons tooth and carved with the Thousand-Leaved Tree, stole a mouthful of milk sometimes; and now she willingly took the traveler home.
